"SEE YOU LATER, SAM," was the message the 106 graduates of the Class of 1988 left for Yosemite Sam and the Rebel underclassmen and staff they would be leaving behind. Graduation was held Friday night, in the school gymnasium.

106 graduate in Class of '88

To the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance," the Telstar Regional High School Class of 1988 marched into the school gymnasium last Friday night.

After subtracting those who didn't make their grades, the final count of graduates was 106—the largest graduating class to date in the 20-year history of the school.

The welcoming address was given by Diana Moxcey. This was followed by speeches from the three top graduates: Valedictorian Delwin Wilson, Salutatorian Jason Adams, and Third Honors Todd Davis.

More photos on pages 4 & 5

The class' choral selection was "Reach Out and Touch Somebody's Hand."

Superintendent of Schools Dewaine Craig certified the graduates to Merton Brown, chairman of the Board of Directors of SAD #44, after which Mr. Brown, assisted by Mr. Craig, awarded diplomas to the graduates.

Graduating senior Denise Gauthier gave some farewell remarks on behalf of the class.

Fr. Albert Colpitts gave the invocation and benediction.

Following graduation, almost all the graduates went off to Project Graduation, at the Racquetball Club, in South Paris, where they spent the night playing games, dancing, and eating. They were brought back to Bethel by school bus Saturday morning for a breakfast at the American Legion hall.

Shopping center planned at Hanover Dowel; lawsuit filed

A Portland development company is planning to construct a 60,000 square foot shopping mall at the corner of Cross Street and Rte. 2, in Bethel.

General Properties, of Portland, has signed a purchase and sale agreement with the J.A. Thurston Co., current owner of what had been part of the Hanover Dowel Co. property. The property was sold to Thurston last winter

Condo projects put on hold as sales slacken

The condo boom in the Bethel area has quieted to the point where one has to listen closely to hear it. Of the nearly a dozen projects that had been planned or built in recent years, few are filled, and fewer yet on going forward with new construction.

Some of the recent casualties of the slowdown in condo sales have been: •Shallowbrook Estates—Malcolm Swayze's proposed development on the Rabbit Road. Mr. Swayze failed to set up an escrow account to pay for a new railroad crossing, thus ending the permitting process for the time being. He could not be contacted for comment.

•Ross Joly's South Pond development in Bryant Pond is reportedly on indefinite hold unless he can acquire access to waterfront rights for his potential buyers. Mr. Joly earlier failed to close on the Blake Farm, in Bethel, where he

Elementary students to have Wednesday afternoons off next year

From October through May of the 1988-89 school year, elementary students in SAD #44 will be released at noon on Wednesdays, according to a policy approved by the district's Board of Directors Monday night.

The purpose of the early release is to allow elementary teachers more time for professional development activities.

The plan for the release time was presented to the board by Jolene Shimamura, a 1st grade teacher in the Woodstock School. She said that it had been developed by the elementary staff members themselves as an alternative to earlier attempts at "restructured days" or "development days," both of which had proven to be unworkable, primarily because they were too rigidly structured.

According to a written proposal submitted to the board by Mrs. Shimamura: "The two hours of professional development time will enhance teachers' effectiveness by providing opportunities for curriculum development, inservice, and collaboration with colleagues. It will not supplant regular staff meetings, recertification courses, and many other professional activities which take place after school hours. It will structure time that teachers might use to fulfill some of the multitude of responsibilities and commitments that face them in addition to their everyday preparation expectations (italics in original)."

'Change of use' clause stirs hot debate at Appeals Board

It was almost like a scene out of Perry Mason—two attorneys arguing with oratorical flourishes, questioning witnesses, citing legal precedents. But it wasn't a courtroom drama; it was a hearing at the Bethel Board of Appeals, which had been called into session at the request of Brian Strickland and Peter Robichaud, who—individually—felt aggrieved by a decision of the Planning Board.

Public hearing set for Inn's condo proposal

The Bethel Planning Board, at its meeting last Wednesday, set a June 22 date for a public hearing on the proposed 29-unit addition to the Bethel Inn's Fairway Townhouses. The additional units are planned for construction on a five-acre lot just south of the existing 40 units.

The Inn's project manager, John Laban, provided the board an updated list of abutters, as well as further details

Town Meeting tonight, 7 p.m.

Bethel Town Meeting will convene tonight (Wednesday), at 7 p.m., in the Telstar auditorium.

Voters will face a warrant consisting of 47 articles. The total budget recommended by the Board of Selectmen for fiscal 1989 is $925,000—up 15 percent from the current fiscal year.

The budget articles will read somewhat differently this year than in year's past because the Budget Committee declined to make any recommendations one way or the other on salaries that the selectmen had already approved. Thus, in budget articles that contain salary items, the amount recommended by the selectmen and the amount recommended by the Budget Committee are

Time for fine tuning

The Town did not put up a very spirited defense of its new Site Plan Review Ordinance in front of the Appeals Board last Thursday night. The big city lawyer for the town, Geoff Hole, seemed unprepared and left it to members of the Planning Board to defend particulars of the ordinance as best they could.

Planning Board Chairman Reggie Brown testified that he relied on the opinion of Mr. Hole that the "changes in use"—at the former RFD #1 Restaurant and at a house in West Bethel—fell under the purview of the ordinance. Mr. Hole, for his part, did not go further than noting that the ordinance covered change of use, as well as substantial enlargement, alterations and new construction.

Trying to get Peter Robichaud—the owner of the house in West Bethel—to admit that his renovations at the house amounted to "substantial enlargement," the town's attorney asked him if increasing his rooms for rent from two to four didn't amount to a 50 percent increase. Possibly not wishing to get involved in a math quiz, Mr. Robichaud did not answer the question directly. And Mr. Hole dropped the matter altogether when someone in the audience pointed out that an increase from two to four amounted to a 100 percent increase.

Representing the plaintiffs' side, local attorney Michael O'Donnell did not attempt to destroy the Site Plan Review Ordinance, which many people in town had worked long months to formulate. In fact, Mr. O'Donnell said the ordinance was a good tool for the town to have. But, he said, it must be "strictly construed."

That may have been the most important comment made during the course of the two-hour hearing.

It seems clear that the town needs a method for controlling and regulating growth and development. Unless one is completely unfazed by the possibility of a fish-processing plant replacing the town office, one must admit that it is necessary for the town to be able to review—and pass judgment—on projects that would change the character of the town.

That is why the Site Plan Review Ordinance specifies numbers of units allowed per acre in multi-family housing; that is why the ordinance specifies green space requirements in a development; that is why the ordinance specifies parking requirements for any development; and that is why the ordinance specifies height limitations on structures.

The ordinance does not zone the town, but it establishes requirements that should, if enforced, preserve what many call the "small-town character" of Bethel.

Change of use, if allowed to take place without review, could be as detrimental to the town as new construction. Turning town hall into a fish meal plant would, obviously, be a matter that townspeople would want to have reviewed by the Planning Board.

But changing a restaurant into a retail store is another matter. Both uses are commercial: the former sells food; the latter sells gifts and rents videotapes. Changing a part of the restaurant into a barber shop and styling salon is also a blurred demarcation: both provide a needed service.

The Appeals Board will have a difficult time defining what constitutes a change of use that should be controlled by the ordinance and what does not.

Clearly, any change of use that would increase parking problems, noise problems, pollution problems, water consumption or sewer use should be subject to review and the permitting process. The question is, without a project being given over to the permitting process, how can town officials judge what effect the proposed change will have on abutters, or on the town in general.

It will require skill to come up with clear definitions as to what sorts of change of use fall under the ordinance. It is up to the Appeals Board to indicate where—if at all—the current ordinance is lacking—and it will likely be up to the Planning Board to propose amendments to this very useful ordinance.

As for the question of the West Bethel boarding house, it will likely be handled on a technicality: that is, it was already a boarding house before the ordinance was ever approved by Town Meeting. Nevertheless, now that the ordinance is in place, a situation in which a house in a residential neighborhood is converted into a boarding house is clearly a situation that should be subject to review. Even the plaintiff's attorney agreed that the ordinance should cover boarding houses. "It should, but it doesn't," said Mr. O'Donnell.

It is time to fine tune the ordinance so that it covers what needs to be covered and leaves alone what can be safely left alone. bfw

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

In reply to Robert Ilsey's letter in the June 8 Citizen, I never said renters didn't pay taxes.

I said that the property owners had to help pay for the support of schools whether or not they had children in school.

Some have said they didn't feel those who were not on the sewer should have to help pay for sewer repair.

Another said that folks in West Bethel would get no enjoyment out of trees on Main Street so why should they pay for them.

I said if those not on sewer didn't have to help pay for repairs and folks in West Bethel didn't have to pay for trees on Main Street why should folks with no children in school have to pay for the support of schools.

The funding for schools should be figured so it is not paid for by property tax.

Ruth Cummings

To the Editor:

We would like to make a correction in last week's "Young Voices" page. The "sponsors" should have read: "The Bethel Savings Bank, P.H. Chadbourne & Co., Becky and Lenny Shaw, and W.J. Wheeler Insurance Co."

The students, teachers, administrators and parent volunteers involved with the Bread Loaf in the Schools Writing Project would like to thank all the Bethel area businesses who have supported either the monthly page of student writing in The Citizen or the final book of student writing.

This final publication includes one piece of writing from each student in 15 classrooms (K-6). The printing and publishing of this book was an enormous undertaking, and it would not have been possible without the time volunteered by Cheryl Lord, Dave Tripp and their students at Telstar. They have produced over 450 copies, most of which will go home this week with each student involved in the project. Extra copies will be available at The Citizen office after the student copies are distributed.

Purse-string politics at issue

At tonight's Town Meeting, Bethel voters will have an opportunity to decide if they will grant their elected officials the power to undertake town projects without specific Town Meeting authorization to expend set amounts of money on those projects.

Articles 45 and 46 on the warrant, will give the Board of Selectmen the authority to set up special accounts, deposit rental receipts and other fees in these accounts, and then expend the monies in these accounts without specific authorization from the town's legislature as to how much to spend. The town's legislature, under the present system of government is, of course, Town Meeting.

In the current fiscal year there have been two examples of town officials expending monies in amounts not specifically authorized by Town Meeting. One was the case of building a road for GAMM II's new factory at the airport industrial park. While Town Meeting had authorized the selectmen to sell lots at the industrial park, voters did not set aside money for road-building at the site. The funds selectmen used were highway department funds. There was no budget item for building roads and doing other work for tenants at the industrial park.

The other instance is the remodeling going on at the town office. While Town Meeting authorized the renovations and appropriated $9,000, the present work requires $13,000. The funds are being taken from rents collected from Cole Block tenants.

The question for voters is whether they want to keep the selectmen dependent upon Town Meeting for budget authorizations or make the selectmen more independent of Town Meeting. Since the power to raise and allocate budget resources is the main function of the town's legislature, it would seem appropriate to keep budgetary control within that body and to vote against Articles 45 and 46. bfw

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

In two weeks' time, we will witness the arrival in Bethel of the forty-first batch of NTL students and faculty. I am writing this letter from a different perspective than I would have last year in that I am an alumnus of one of the many NTL courses offered during the summer. As I listened to you welcome our group last June on behalf of the town in Bingham Gymnasium, I was, like many of the group who were newcomers to Bethel, a little anxious about what lay ahead for me in the Human Interaction Laboratory (the basic NTL course which opens the door to advanced courses).

I remembered back to my student days at Gould in the 1950s when Beryl Morgan and Olive and Jean, with whom I worked in the Gould kitchen, told me about the NTLers who inhabited the campus during the summer months.

Then I thought about my move here in 1984 and seeing NTLers leading each other blindfolded down Main Street. And there I sat, a resident of Bethel, wondering if I was going to be led down Main Street in the next few days.

As it turned out, my fears were unwarranted. The following six days comprised a super experience for me and the "mystery" that once surrounded this thing called NTL was nothing more than a lot of "good stuff" which I think has helped me grow, stretch and better understand and respect my fellow human beings. The H.I. Lab made me curious about some notions which evolved during the course and started me on a pretty interesting reading program through the winter. This led to my registering for another lab this summer.

There are two points I would like to make to the residents of the town. First, I was really pleased to be able to observe how the participants in the course were welcomed by the people of Bethel. It was even better when people came to realize I lived here and made it a point to come up during a break in the seminar and tell me they liked our town and its inhabitants. Second, as a Bethel resident, I am taking a two-week course for $150, which would [regularly] cost nearly $1,000. And that's only because I wanted to reserve a spot for myself—if it otherwise is a $50 fee for anyone who registers on a stand-by basis. In any other place, an experience like this, taught by professionals with masters' and doctorate degrees, would cost much, much more. It's a university in our own backyard, which we can attend at a fraction of the [regular] cost.

I look forward to seeing my fellow students received with the same warm welcome this summer and urge anyone interested in an NTL laboratory to pursue their curiosity—there are wonderful surprises in store.

To the Editor:

Could someone on the school board please publish or send me the directive that exempts school buses from having and using seatbelts. Since the new state law was designed for the safety of our children, there must have been a study done proving buses don't need belts. I would like to see a summary.

I am certain at least one of the SAD #44 buses has no belts in use. I would simply like someone with authority to assure me in writing that my child is as safe unbelted on a bus as he is in my vehicle with a seat belt on.

Carroll Murphy West Bethel

Editor's note: Superintendent of School's Dewaine Craig says there is no requirement for school buses to be equipped with seatbelts, and therefore they are not. The state legislature debated the matter last session and came to the conclusion that having seatbelts on schoolbuses would cause more problems than they would solve.

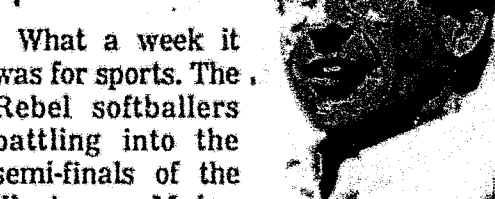

To the Editor:

The Bethel Rotary Club would like to thank everyone who helped make our auction such a great success.

Thanks to the generosity of our donors and the participation of our audience, we were able to raise over $2,500 for scholarships and other club related activities. This was a true community effort! Your support was very much appreciated.

David Murphy

A note from the publisher

What a week it was for sports. The Rebel softballers battling into the semi-finals of the Western Maine Class C championships, only to run out of steam. And the Rebel baseballers making it into the finals, winning the Western Maine Class C championship, and then going on to vie for the state title. Nothing like it had happened since the '70s.

They were stopped at the state level by Madawaska. But the important thing is that they got to the state level. Only two teams in the state can claim that honor.

Of course, in reality, the strength or weakness of a school's sports program is not whether or not a particular team makes it to the championship, or even whether or not a particular team has a winning season.

The essence of high school sports is to teach teamwork and good sportsmanship—in addition to the skills and strategy needed in any sport. If the high schooler who goes out for a sport learns to work with his or her teammates and learns to take losing (and winning) with good grace and a sense of perspective, that student has learned some valuable life lessons.

We salute the Rebel spring athletes and coaches—just as we saluted the winter athletes and coaches—not so much for bringing glory to the Bethel area, but for providing us spirited, hustling teams to root for.

See you on the playing fields in the fall.

School Board

The proposal calls for the time to be spent on academic standards curriculum sub-committees and other district committees. Children are People (C.A.P.) training and teacher support groups, grade-level meetings, parent group and volunteer activities, building-wide planning committees, parent conferences, visits to other schools, library resources, curriculum support groups, classroom curriculum and instruction development and grant writing.

As presented by Mrs. Shimamura, the issue was essentially one of quality versus quantity. Total teaching time will be reduced, but the increased time for professional development will: "enhance and make even more effective the time spent with children in the classroom."

Mrs. Shimamura acknowledged that there had been some skepticism among staff members when the idea of release time was again proposed. "Teachers are very protective of their time with the kids," she said, but the skepticism had fallen away as teachers had the opportunity to contribute their own input to the proposal.

A number of board members, including Chairman Merton Brown, of Bethel, commended the teachers for developing the plan themselves, but Mr. Brown added that he felt the proposal was long overdue: "I've asked them for three years to come up with something," he said.

The proposal will cost the district more money—for additional bus runs. Superintendent Dewaine Craig (who also supported the idea) said he could not estimate how much money would be involved, but, "if it's costing us a large dollar figure, then we will not be able to go on with it."

The board amended the proposal to include quarterly academic and financial reports, then approved it on a one-year, trial basis. The vote was 15-1, with Rex Thurston, of Andover, opposed.

The plan will affect all students in kindergarten through Grade 6, except high-achievers at the Telstar Middle School. They will be given a lot of time before being sent home. In the months of September and June regular Wednesday classes will be held.

In other action at their regular meeting Monday evening, the school district directors voted not to revise their recently adopted ban on plastic foam (such as Styrofoam) food containers in the district.

They approved the following personnel appointments or contract renewals: Lynn Boschetti as elementary guidance counselor for 1988-89, Gail Parent and Carol Stuart as summer school teachers. Second probationary contracts were approved for: Kay Chabourne, elementary creative and talented (part time); Kathryn Conrad, AES Grade 4; Jacklyn Cranton, speech clinician; Leonard Hoy, CPS Grade 4; Timothy O'Connor, Telstar industrial arts; Dara O'Connor, TMS Grade 6; Elizabeth O'Meara, CPS Grade 3; Arla Patch, elementary creative and talented (part time); Dee Rand CPS resource room; Barbara Russell, Telstar physical education; Norma Salway, CPS Kindergarten; and Susan Stephenson, TMS resource room. Continuing contracts were approved for: Debra Germain-Maselli, CPS Chapter I; Marie Hickey, CPS composite room; Sue Howe, CPS grade 4; Jacqueline Morin, WES Grade 3; M. Jane Munn, Telstar business education; Robin Smith, WES Kindergarten; Christopher Szente, WES Grade 6; and Brenda Wright, CPS Grade 3. The board also accepted the resignations of Elizabeth Duguay, WES food service, and Elizabeth Mikenas-Smith, elementary music.

Following an executive session, Linda Gamble was appointed a long-term substitute teacher in the WES Kindergarten. Her salary will be $89.50 per day. Chairman Brown said later that because of the ill feelings generated when principals' salaries were discussed recently in open session, all salary discussions will henceforth be held in executive session.

Board member John Foster, of Andover, did not attend Monday's meeting.

Condo sales slump

was planning a 100-unit condo project. He could not be contacted for comment.

Marathon Industrial Co.'s Mill Brook Estates subdivision, off Bridge Street, Bethel, has been for sale since last fall (as reported earlier in The Citizen). Marathon's Jim Putnam said, "We've been dealing with a particular party for quite a while." But no sale has been worked out yet.

Eden Ridge—the first of the large condominium projects in Bethel—stopped construction last week, about half-completed. Sources said it might start up again next week.

Mt. Abram Ski Slopes' summer building program has been trimmed. While the skiway is going ahead with plans to construct the new chairlift, plans to build new trailside condos have reportedly been pushed back. Officials there could not be contacted for comment.

The Carriage House condos and the Cameron House condos both still have unsold units, although two years ago the Carriage House had good faith deposits on all units.

The two planned projects in Hanover are both apparently on hold.

The planned project of Bill and Vicki Myers, on the Sunday River Road, has also not started.

So much for what is not happening. Those projects that are moving forward include The Bethel Inn's Fairway Townhouses, Sunday River Ski Resort's condominiums, and Barker Brook Townhouses—a new development that will start building July 1.

Bill Cramton, the skiway's real estate manager, credits the skiway's recreational product for the continuing sales of condos there. Not only does the buyer get a place to live, but he or she also gets a place to ski. "It's a special product," he said. "It's right here on the mountain."

Nevertheless, sales of condos at the skiway have slowed. "It's not as great as it was a year ago," Mr. Cramton admitted, "but it's not bad up here." The past few months have been particularly dull. "I won't say it's picked up, [but] the person walking through the door is a serious buyer." He added that the serious buyers are mostly from coastal Maine, from the so-called Seacoast area of New Hampshire, and from Massachusetts.

The skiway is continuing work this summer on White Cap condominiums—six buildings of 28 units each—and Locke Mountain Townhouses—three buildings of eight units each.

At The Bethel Inn, project manager John Laban echoed Mr. Cramton's view, that it is the location of the condos that is helping to sell them. The Inn's condos are, of course, adjacent to the golf course. The Inn has sold or has deposits on all of the original 40 units and has more than 20 good-faith deposits on the proposed additional 20 units.

The just-announced townhouse project at Barker Brook also will have the advantage of location—being across the road from Sunday River Cross Country Ski Center and just downhill from the skiway. The former Nancy Martin subdivision has been purchased by two experienced developers, one from Sanford, the other from Lowell, Mass. The new owners envision 40 townhouse units in the project. They plan to build 17 in phase one. Each will have two bedrooms and a loft and will be priced from $135,000.

The skiway's Bill Cramton blamed the slowdown in condo sales to continuing aftershocks from the stock market collapse of last October. The new tax laws also inhibit people from buying multiple units because the investment write-offs have been eliminated. Mortgage payments on second homes are still deductible, but purchasing condos as an investment has become less attractive, Mr. Cramton said.

Scott Williams, partner in Gillies Realty, agrees. People buying condos for investment were hurt the most by the new tax laws.

Mr. Williams said the banks are also forcing the slowdown in construction by demanding a higher percentage of pre-sales before granting construction loans.

The bottom line, he indicated, is that the condo market is overbuilt. And that is the main reason why most projects have stopped or slowed. "I think it's a correction in the marketplace," he said. "I think the projects will still happen, but the timing will change. They'll happen eventually."

He said that real estate sales in general were "very slow" during the spring but have now started to pick up "a little." A local banker confirms that mortgage loans on houses and condos are way off their previous pace. This source said the most interest seems to be in houses and land for investment.

Another real estate agent noted that sale of lakefront properties—both camps and lots—has remained strong.

'Trek Across Maine' pedals off June 17th, from Newry to Rockport

"They're off and trekking—ah...riding," according to Peter King, Trek director for the fourth annual American Lung Association of Maine's three-day bicycle Trek Across Maine: Sunday River to the Sea, June 17-19.

A record-setting nearly 400 trekkers are expected to ride the 183 miles, beginning at Sunday River Ski Resort in Newry, cycling through Rumford, Dixfield, Wilton, Farmington, Norridgewock, Skowhegan, Waterville, Winslow, China, Appleton, Union, Rockland and ending at Rockport's Samoset Resort.

The bicyclists will be staying overnight at the University of Maine Farmington, and Colby College in Waterville. It is estimated that $125,000 will be raised by Trekkers' pledges for the American Lung Association of Maine.

Planning Board

and corrections on the application. The board will act on the application within 30 days of the public hearing. The Inn must also get Department of Environmental approval for the project, which Mr. Laban hopes to have started before next winter.

Before the regular meeting got underway, a public hearing was held concerning proposed amendments to the Site Plan Review Ordinance. One intent of these amendments is to turn enforcement of the ordinance over to a Code Enforcement Officer and establish inspection fees. These fees would pass part of the costs of the officer onto the developers and site plan applicants rather than the rest of the taxpayers.

Another intent is to allow residents to amend the ordinance at either annual town meeting or a special town meeting instead of only once a year at the annual meeting. No one was present to speak on the issues. The board voted 5-0 to recommend the amendments, which will now go before the town meeting on June 15.

The board passed unanimously an amendment to the Bethel Subdivision Regulations, recommended by Town Manager Rodney Lynch, which would require a code enforcement inspection fee of $50 for each lot or unit of a proposed subdivision. Mr. Lynch said $5,000 is now budgeted for the code enforcement officer, and the additional $3,000 from the fees would allow the CEO to do follow-up inspections on subdivision approvals, something that is not done now.

In reference to the Bethel Inn's proposal, board member Sumner Burgess said on-site inspection revealed no problems in terms of causing siltation in Mill Brook and that the problem of insufficient parking had been properly addressed. Bethel's Site Plan Review Ordinance requires three parking spaces for each two bedroom unit, and the most recent plans show sufficient parking.

Board member Ginger Kelly raised the issue of fees the new owners should pay for sewer use, but Mr. Laban said no final decision has been made about whether to hook into the town sewer or build a separate system. Mrs. Kelly said that though some think it would be a disadvantage to have them on the sewer system, she thought it would be better in the long run to have them hooked in.

Town Manager Rodney Lynch pointed out that right now the DEP will not allow any major new developments on the town sewer until the town agrees to a compliance schedule to improve the existing sewer system. He said that even with no growth the deterioration of the present system is a problem that must be dealt with. It will take time, he said, for the DEP and the town to settle the issue.

The board received a letter from the DEP requesting the town's comments on the townhouse development, but it was decided to wait until after the public hearing to respond to this request.

In other matters, the board voted unanimously to accept and approve the application of John Mason for a residential building to be built on his property on the Northwest Bethel Road. While some expressed concerns about the septic system, located in the floodplain just over 200 feet from the Androscoggin, Dr. Mason assured the board that the system was designed so that no pollution would occur, even in high water.

In other business the board voted 5-0 to recommend revoking the 40-acre exemption from the Bethel subdivision regulations. This action was in response to recent legislation allowing towns to change their laws so that subdivisions could not avoid local subdivision review by selling lots of 40 or more acres. A public hearing will be held at some future time about this amendment.

The board discussed a set of planning board bylaws drawn up by the board's assistant, Veronica Smith, but postponed any action on adopting them until they are re-written.

The Site Plan Ordinance Review committee reported progress on amendments to be presented to town meeting later in the summer. These amendments will clarify what needs to be shown on specific maps and plans in applications.

The road committee reported on their discussions concerning private roads and definitions of such terms as "principal access road." According to Sumner Burgess, who heads the committee, they will finish their first draft by next week. The board will decide at their next meeting, on June 22, whether to have a separate hearing on this committee's recommendations.

Board members attending the meeting were: Reggie Brown (chairman), Don Remington, Sumner Burgess, John Laban (whose term expires this month), and Ginger Kelly. Absent were Deborah Dohrmann (whose term expires this month) and Pat Hudson.

was planning a 100-unit condo project. He could not be contacted for comment.

Marathon Industrial Co.'s Mill Brook Estates subdivision, off Bridge Street, Bethel, has been for sale since last fall (as reported earlier in The Citizen). Marathon's Jim Putnam said, "We've been dealing with a particular party for quite a while." But no sale has been worked out yet.

Eden Ridge—the first of the large condominium projects in Bethel—stopped construction last week, about half-completed. Sources said it might start up again next week.

Mr. Abram Ski Slopes' summer building program has been trimmed. While the skiway is going ahead with plans to construct the new chairlift, plans to build new trails and condos have reportedly been pushed back. Officials there could not be contacted for comment.

The Carriage House condos and the Cameron House condos both still have unsold units, although two years ago the Carriage House had good faith deposits on all units.

The two planned projects in Hanover are both apparently on hold.

The planned project of Bill and Vicki Myers, on the Sunday River Road, has also not started.

So much for what is not happening. Those projects that are moving forward include The Bethel Inn's Fairway Townhouses, Sunday River Ski Resort's condominiums, and Barker Brook Townhouses—a new development that will start building July 1.

Bill Cramton, the skiway's real estate manager, credits the skiway's recreational product for the continuing sales of condos there. Not only does the buyer get a place to live, but he or she also gets a place to ski. "It's a special product," he said. "It's right here on the mountains."

Nevertheless, sales of condos at the skiway have slowed. "It's not as great as it was a year ago," Mr. Cramton admitted, "but it's not bad up here." The past few months have been particularly dull.

"I won't say it's picked up, [but] the person walking through the door is a serious buyer." He added that the serious buyers are mostly from coastal Maine, from the so-called Seacoast area of New Hampshire, and from Massachusetts.

The skiway is continuing work this summer on White Cap condominiums—six buildings of 28 units each—and Locke Mountain Townhouses—three buildings of eight units each.

At The Bethel Inn, project manager John Laban echoed Mr. Cramton's view, that it is the location of the condos that is helping to sell them. The Inn's condos are, of course, adjacent to the golf course. The Inn has sold or has deposits on all of the original 40 units and has more than 20 good-faith deposits on the proposed additional 20 units.

The just-announced townhouse project at Barker Brook also will have the advantage of location—being across the road from Sunday River Cross Country Ski Center and just downhill from the skiway. The former Nancy Martin subdivision had been purchased by two experienced developers, one from Sanford, the other from Lowell, Mass. The new owners envision 40 townhouse units in the project. They plan to build 17 in phase one. Each will have two bedrooms and a lot and will be priced from $135,000.

The skiway's Bill Cramton blamed the slowdown in condo sales to continuing aftershocks from the stock market collapse of last October. The new tax laws also inhibit people from buying multiple units because the investment write-offs have been eliminated. Mortgage payments on second homes are still deductible, but purchasing condos as an investment has become less attractive, Mr. Cramton said.

Scott Williams, partner in Gillies Realty, agrees. People buying condos for investment were hurt the most by the new tax laws.

Mr. Williams said the banks are also forcing the slowdown in construction by demanding a higher percentage of pre-sales before granting construction loans.

The bottom line, he indicated, is that the condo market is overbuilt. And that is the main reason why most projects have stopped or slowed. "I think it's a correction in the marketplace," he said. "I think the projects will still happen, but the timing will change. They'll happen eventually."

He said that real estate sales in general were "very slow" during the spring but have now started to pick up "a little."

A local banker confirms that mortgage loans on houses and condos are way off their previous pace. This source said the most interest seems to be in houselets and land for investment.

Another real estate agent noted that sale of lakefront properties—both camps and lots—has remained strong.

Trek Across Maine' pedals off June 17th, from Newry to Rockport

"They're off and trekking—ah, riding," according to Peter King, Trek director for the fourth annual American Lung Association of Maine's three-day bicycle Trek Across Maine: Sunday River to the Sea, June 17-19.

A record-setting nearly 400 trekkers are expected to ride the 183 miles, beginning at Sunday River Ski Resort in Newry, cycling through Rumford, Dixfield, Wilton, Farmington, Norridgewock, Skowhegan, Waterville, Winslow, China, Appleton, Union, Rockland, and ending at Rockport's Samoset Resort.

The bicyclists will be staying overnight at the University of Maine Farmington and Colby College in Waterville.

It is estimated that $125,000 will be raised by Trekkers' pledges for the American Lung Association of Maine.

and corrections on the application. The board will act on the application within 30 days of the public hearing. The Inn must also get Department of Environmental approval for the project, which Mr. Laban hopes to have started before next winter.

Before the regular meeting got underway, a public hearing was held concerning proposed amendments to the Site Plan Review Ordinance. One intent of these amendments is to turn enforcement of the ordinance over to a Code Enforcement Officer and establish inspection fees. These fees would pass part of the costs of the officer onto the developers and site plan applicants rather than the rest of the taxpayers.

Another intent is to allow residents to amend the ordinance at either annual town meeting or a special town meeting instead of only once a year at the annual meeting. No one was present to speak on the issues. The board voted 5-0 to recommend the amendments, which will now go before the town meeting on June 15.

The board passed unanimously an amendment to the Bethel Subdivision Regulations, recommended by Town Manager Rodney Lynch, which would require a code enforcement inspection fee of $50 for each lot or unit of a proposed subdivision. Mr. Lynch said $50,000 is now budgeted for the code enforcement officer, and the additional $3,000 from the fees would allow the CEO to do follow-up inspections on subdivision approvals, something that is not done now.

In reference to the Bethel Inn's proposal, board member Sumner Burgess said on-site inspection revealed no problems in terms of causing siltation in Mill Brook and that the problem of insufficient parking had been properly addressed. Bethel's Site Plan Review Ordinance requires three parking spaces for each two bedroom unit, and the most recent plans show sufficient parking.

Board member Ginger Kelly raised the issue of fees the new owners should pay for sewer use, but Mr. Laban said that no final decision has been made about whether to hook into the town sewer or build a separate system. Mrs. Kelly said that though some think it would be a disadvantage to have them on the sewer system, she thought it would be better in the long run to have them hooked in.

Town Manager Rodney Lynch pointed out that right now the DEP will not allow any major new developments on the town sewer until the town agrees to a compliance schedule to improve the existing sewer system. He said that even with no growth the deterioration of the present system is a problem that must be dealt with. It will take time, he said, for the DEP and the town to settle the issue.

The board received a letter from the DEP requesting the town's comments on the townhouse development, but it was decided to wait until after the public hearing to respond to this request.

In other matters, the board voted unanimously to accept and approve the application of John Mason for a residential building to be built on his property on the Northwest Bethel Road. While some expressed concerns about the septic system, located in the floodplain just over 200 feet from the Androscoggin, Dr. Mason assured the board that the system was designed so that no pollution would occur, even in high water.

In other business the board voted 5-0 to recommend revoking the 40-acre exemption from the Bethel subdivision regulations. that put together the first draft of the ordinance, said the idea behind including "change of use" as one of the factors that would bring the ordinance into play was to enable the Planning Board to judge the potential impact of any change of use. For example, he said, what impact might a change of use have on parking, or water use, etc.

On the side of the property owners, Atty. O'Donnell argued as follows: "I contend the thrust of the ordinance is to regulate development." Change of use does apply to development, he said, in some cases. "If someone wants to take their home and turn it into a commercial establishment, I think that's clearly a change of use." But, on the other hand, he said, changing uses within a commercial establishment would not affect the development of the town and is clearly not what the townspeople had in mind when they voted for the ordinance.

Planning Board member Ginger Kelly, who had been on the drafting committee, agreed. "Something from retail to retail in my recollection, was not a change of use." She said she did not consider Mr. Strickland's change of use of his property from a restaurant to a barber shop to be a "change of use" as envisioned by the ordinance.

And Mr. O'Donnell pointed out that the phrase, as used in the ordinance, is never defined.

In the case of Mr. Robichaud's boarding house, Mr. O'Donnell said the situation was extraordinarily similar to Mr. Strickland's. Mr. Robichaud testified that his remodeled West Bethel house was already being used as a boarding house before the ordinance was adopted. He said he had two boarders six months before the ordinance took effect. Afterwards, he built space for two more boarders. But this was not a change of use, he argued—only a change of capacity.

In the case of the conversion of the RFD #1 Restaurant into a barbershop at one end and a retail store at the other, Mr. O'Donnell pointed out that there are eight rental units in the building, and the particular use of each one often changes.

Town Counsel Geoff Hole asked Mr. Strickland if he saw any difference between the production of food and the production of haircuts. Mr. O'Donnell jumped in and said the change that took place within the space that had been a restaurant was a change in materials, not a change of use—the use remained commercial.

The Appeals Board members listened to all the arguments and then adjourned without setting a date for reconvening.

agent for the planned shopping center. One problem that may hold up the closing is a lawsuit. The case, filed in superior court in Portland by Bill Overton's Marathon Industrial Co.—the developer of Mill Brook Estates on Rte. 2, Bethel—resulted from the fact that Marathon had wanted to purchase the Hanover Dovel property before J.A. Thurston Co. bought it. The suit names Hanover Dovel, its original owner Wallace Saunders, and J.A. Thurston as defendants. Marathon has moved to attack the property in question. A hearing on the motion was held last week.

In the meantime, Scott Williams has been busy looking for prospective tenants in the proposed shopping center. So far, he says, he has been dealing with a fast food chain, a supermarket chain, and a restaurant. The supermarket—if it moved in—would take 15,000 square feet, Mr. Williams said. (In comparison, the Bethel IGA has about 6,000 square feet; it is presently adding another 900 square feet.)

Mr. Williams said he is also considering a car wash, and a dry cleaner/laundromat.

David ("Fuzzy") Thurston, of J.A. Thurston Co., was very positive about the track record of General Properties in developing commercial space. "We think they're the best quality operation available," he said.

Competitors needed for woodsmen's contest

Interested woodsmen should pick up entry forms for the Mollycoddett Day Woodsmen's Competition. Forms are available (with no entry fee) at the Chamber of Commerce office, Edelweiss Country Store, or Prim's Pharmacy.

The competition will be sponsored by the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce and the Bethel Rotary Club and will be limited to area woodsmen. The various events will be organized in such a way that the average woodsman will be able to compete without purchasing any special equipment. Ordinary chainsaws and log rollers will be used, as well as mandatory safety equipment.

There will be five events in the competition: tree fell, tree cut, pulp throw, logrolling, and three cut. The prizes will be $50 for first in each event; $25 for second in each event; and $10 for third in each event. In addition, the overall lumberjack of the year—determined on accumulated points in the various events—will be awarded $100. Federal Distributors, of Lewiston, is helping to sponsor the contests.

Terrific season ends—but wait 'til next year

The Telstar baseball team completed a season to be proud of Saturday, but four unearned runs given up in the early innings cost them a chance for their first state championship since 1974.

Eastern Maine Class C champion Madawaska managed only three hits, but when combined with Rebel miscues and lack of timely hitting on the part of the locals, it was good enough for a 6-2 victory.

The Rebels earned the right to battle for the state title by beating Livermore Falls, 3-2, in a tense defensive battle last Thursday afternoon.

Against the Andies, Gary Williamson notched his third playoff victory, and catcher Jimmy Merrill provided the offensive spark—leading off with a home run and scoring the eventual winning run, when a high and wild fastball got away from the Andies' catcher, allowing Merrill to score from third base.

The Rebels had to survive a number of Andies threats—including a seventh inning, two-out blast that looked sure to tie the game, but the drive finally hit the wall in deep left-center, the Andies had to settle for a double, and the Rebels held on for their second one-run playoff victory in a row.

Saturday's game, played at Ward Field, lacked the drama of the earlier victories. Control problems for Telstar starter Rick Roy and reliever Brant Remington staked the Owls to an early three-run lead that the Rebels were never able to seriously threaten.

In the fourth inning, Coach Levi Brown again called on Gary Williamson, who responded by holding the Owls to only one more run, but it was too little-too late, as the Rebels—who stranded 12 baserunners in seven innings—were unable to come up with the timely hits.

The Rebels end the season with a 15-5 record and the Western Maine Class C Championship. They also lose only one starter—outfield star Matt York—to graduation.

The group of outstanding juniors who make up the core of the starting unit will have one more shot at a state title. In each year they've been at Telstar they've taken one step further—making the playoffs as freshmen, the Class C Championship game last year, and the State Championship game this year.

They lost Saturday, but they'll be back.

The Telstar Softball Team ended its season two games short of their goal. Erskine Academy ended the Rebel's hopes of playing for the state championship by beating the locals 5-4 in the semi-finals of the Western Division championship last Tuesday. The team had been Western Maine runners-up the year before and returned a strong nucleus of players.

The season was an overall success, according to Coach Jim Lunney, as the Rebels posted a 15-3 SPM record and were 21-7 overall.

Coach Lunney provided the following assessment and summary of his team's players.

Senior Heidi Belanger, considered by many one of the top pitchers in Class C, led the team's pitchers, allowing less than five runs per game.

Junior centerfielder Buffie Taylor led the team in batting, with a .475 average. She was second on the team in RBI's, with 20, and second with runs scored, with 26.

Senior first baseman Mindy Robinson was second in batting, with a .461 average. Mindy was first in hits, with 30, first in RBI's, with 24, first in extra base hits, with 10, and she anchored the defense, where she has been a four-year starter.

Senior shortstop Nancy Miller was third in batting, with a .450 average, and she provided strong defensive play at short.

Senior catcher Missy Johnson, with a .405 average, and senior Mary Hutchinson, .388, provided strong offensive help and helped anchor a strong infield. Mary led the team in runs scored, with 30.

Junior Brenda Taylor was second on the team with extra base hits, third on the team with 25 runs scored, and third in RBI's, with 15, as well as playing a solid second base.

Junior Kelly Bartlett was second on the team with 26 runs scored and she led the outfielders with seven assists.

Sophomore Angie Jordan roamed left field, and the speedster led the team in stolen bases and batted over .340.

Sophomores Mary Beth Hannon, Kristen Cushman and freshman Vicki Hutchins gave the Rebels strength on the bench.

Junior Julie Hutchins, sophomore Amy Brindley and freshman Kim Delano, Angie Hebert, Lynn Buckingham and senior Karen Simmons contributed to the bench strength of the team.

The team set several school records: most regular season victories, 14; they reached the highest Heat Point record, rated #2 behind Traip Academy; their 21 overall victories tied last year's total. Heidi Belanger's two-year won-lost record, 29-6, is the best in the school's history. Mindy Robinson ended her career with most of the school's offensive records. "Good season, ladies," the coach commented.

By EVELINE B. VATCHER

These frosty mornings are taking a toll on Joe Vatcher's pepper plants, but four unearned runs given up in the early innings cost them a chance for their first state championship since 1974.

Congratulations to those that graduated from Oxford Hills from North Paris and West Paris.

Lila Ellingwood was moved from Stephens Memorial Hospital to Ledgewood Nursing Home, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Todd Poland and family have moved their trailer on a lot between Audrey Hadley and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stelthorn, a beautiful spot.

John Haney Sr. was moved from Togus to Norway Nursing Home Thursday.

Doris Lawrence and Gertrude Birney called on Lois Ellingwood Tuesday after the Senior Citizens meeting and she showed us pictures of the hall in her dooryard from Sunday night's shower.

Her next door neighbor, "Bob" Coffin, the road commissioner of West Paris, said he had two inches of hail stones in the back of his truck body.

Different neighbors have been watching the moose that crosses just beyond Arnold Coffin's trailer.

Callers at the "Root" Lawrences have been Mr. and Mrs. Norman Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. Odell Heath, Buddy Henderson, Lennie Dillingham, Joe Kalinowski, Richard Pelt, Cleo Ryerson, Barbara Gallant and Lucy Robbins.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Abbott called on the Joe Vatchers. The home health nurse comes twice a week, also several other callers. Eveleen feels a bit better.

The Gold Headed Cane will be presented by President Harry Bessett of the West Paris Senior Citizens to Florence Isley, who will celebrate her bench. Junior Julie Hutchins, sophomore Amy Brindley and freshman Kim Delano, Angie Hebert, Lynn Buckingham and senior Karen Simmons contributed to the bench strength of the team.

THE THRILL OF VICTORY... Telstar players (left) celebrate Thursday's 3-2 Western Maine Class C Championship victory over Livermore Falls, but on Saturday afternoon the victory belonged to the other guys, as Madawaska took the State Class C Championship, defeating the Rebels 6-2. The loss was especially bitter for Matt York (below), the only senior in the Telstar starting lineup. "The best defensive outfielder in Class C," according to his coach, Levi Brown, Matt had turned the offensive side of his game around this season, hitting .300 for the year and coming through for the team in the playoffs at over .500. In each of their three years playing for Telstar, the juniors in the Rebel lineup have advanced one step closer to a state championship. "So far they've been able to elevate themselves to that next level each year," Coach Brown said. "Next year, with a little luck, they'll be ready to take that last step."

Good response seen for summer courses

SAD #4 Adult and Community Education courses scheduled for the summer term are receiving a good response, according to Director Cathy Newell.

The Introduction to Computers, a 12-hour class to be held on Wednesdays, June 29-Aug. 3, is nearly full, and the ever-popular Bird-carving has been filled. Places are available in such classes as Refresher Math, GED Preparation, Woodworking, Multi-media First Aid, CPR, and Exercise. Information regarding specific courses is available in the Summer Course guide, which was sent to SAD #4 postal patrons on May 31. Additional copies are available at the Adult Education Office at Telstar High School.

Adult registrations are also being received for several of the Telstar Evening Summer School courses, including Algebra, Biology, Chemistry, Computer Literacy and Typing.

Many of the adults interested in Telstar Summer School courses are planning to enter vocational school and are in need of brush-up work or courses they did not take in high school. The new approach at Telstar Evening Summer School has classes scheduled at night, open to teens and adults.

Those wishing to enroll in a class, sponsored by Adult Education, or as part of Telstar Evening Summer School, should call the Adult Education office, 824-2780.

Third Honors Address By TODD DAVIS

I would like to begin by thanking and welcoming the members of the board, the administration, the faculty, the staff, family and friends here tonight for the Class of 1988. Also, I would like to take this time to congratulate my classmates, who have worked very hard to reach this occasion. From that day back in September 13 years ago we have all strived for this goal. For some, achieving this goal was extremely difficult, and for some it was relatively easy, but the important part is that we all succeeded.

Success is something I am sure everyone here has encountered, and I felt it was an appropriate topic for tonight seeing as everyone behind me has succeeded in a task which was set before them some time ago. Thoughtful life many different obstacles are set before us. Some may be long-term, like the schooling we have just completed, or they may be situations faced daily. Success marks the best possible ending to these obstacles.

Success is measured differently by every person. A scientist might consider an experiment done by a high school chemistry student unacceptable because of the percent of error due to lack of precise instruments, inaccurate reading, etc. However, the student may think the experiment a great success from the grade received on the lab report.

At this time I would like to give you a quote from the Latin author Juvenal. "Mens sana in corpore sano." Literally it means "sound mind in a sound body." I feel that this has a lot to do with success. For when working at something it is very difficult to succeed when you are not either mentally or physically prepared. When success is obtained without these two I think it should be classified as luck.

This is probably most easily seen in professional athletes. In their training obviously they spend hours and hours working to have possible shape ready for top weight training. However, they may be prepared so that they can act on these two are very likely. I have persons where it was success was direct in incorporate same. Sophomore year that year, in the season is when team wanted to by did during pre-season great condition. Third Honors Address

By TODD DAVIS

I would like to begin by thanking and welcoming the members of the board, the administration, the faculty, the staff, family and friends here tonight for the Class of 1988. Also, I would like to take this time to congratulate my classmates, who have worked very hard to reach this occasion. From that day back in September 13 years ago we have all strived for this goal. For some, achieving this goal was extremely difficult, and for some it was relatively easy, but the important part is that we all succeeded.

Success is something I am sure everyone here has encountered, and I felt it was an appropriate topic for tonight seeing as everyone behind me has succeeded in a task which was set before them some time ago. Throughout life many different obstacles are set before us. Some may be long-term, like the schooling we have just completed, or they may be situations faced daily. Success marks the best possible ending to these obstacles.

Success is measured differently by every person. A scientist might consider an experiment done by a high school chemistry student unacceptable because of the percent of error due to lack of precise instruments, inaccurate reading, etc. However, the student may think the experiment a great success from the grade received on the lab report.

At this time I would like to give you a quote from the Latin author Juvenal. "Mens sana in corpore sano." Literally it means "sound mind in a sound body." I feel that this has a lot to do with success. For when working at something it is very difficult to succeed when you are not either mentally or physically prepared. When success is obtained without these two I think it should be classified as luck.

This is probably most easily seen in professional athletes. In their training obviously they spend hours and hours working to have their bodies in the best possible shape. They keep their muscles ready for top performance with a lot of weight training and endurance exercises. However, this is only half of their task. They must also have their minds prepared so they can quickly focus on exactly what must be done and when. When these two are put together then success is very likely.

I have personally had an experience where it was very obvious that our success was directly related to "mens sana in corpore sano." It all started my Sophomore year. We got a new ski coach that year; in the beginning not many people liked this coach because he felt pre-season is when we should train while the team wanted to fool around like we usually did during pre-season. However, at the end of pre-season our bodies were in great condition. Also, he pushed us extremely hard so that it made us angry with him. We got so angry with him that we wanted to perform well just to prove to him that we could do it right, and this is the way he trained us mentally. That season we experienced something new for the alpine ski team: we were winning. Furthermore, we had similar success the next year, where we finished second in the Class A State Meet. Although we did not realize this at the time, our success was greatly due to the idea of mind and body.

In concluding I would once again like to thank everyone here for coming. Also, I would like to thank Mr. Hart and dad for guiding us through high school and the teachers for preparing us for what is ahead. Lastly, I wanted to once again congratulate the Class of 1988. Thank you.

Mrs. Berry would you come up here please. Throughout your teaching career here at Telstar you have exhibited the four qualities of an N.H.S. member: scholarship, leadership, character and service as well as anyone, and I am sure these qualities will be missed greatly

Salutatory Address

By Jason C. Adams

Last year around graduation I found a cartoon in the newspaper. It said, "Here we are—the class of 87: We can do algebra, spell 'receive,' conjugate 'hablar,' dissect frogs and shoot baskets. Anybody got any jobs open?" I remember many times in the past four years I've sat in a class and wondered, "When will I ever need to know this other than for the test on Friday?" Many of the things I learned I'm sure I won't need later in life. In the past year, however, I've begun to see how Telstar does prepare students for life after high school, outside the classroom, beyond the textbook and the standardized test.

I believe that the most important preparation for life after high school that Telstar provides is Career Week. During one week in each of the Junior and Senior years, students are given the opportunity to experience first-hand a vocation in which they may have some interest. This is one of the most useful tools students have to make a preliminary decision on a career. At best, the student has decided definitely what he wants to go to college to study; at worst, he is sure of two options he does not want to pursue.

Two excellent learning opportunities Telstar offers are O.S.L.C. (Outdoor Skills Leadership Challenge) and the Outward Bound trip for Sophomores. Not only do these experiences teach you such vital things as wilderness survival and first aid, but they also teach students to act together as a group, each member assisting others where they are weak or inexperienced, a sharp contrast from the strictly individual atmosphere of the classroom. Every O.S.L.C. has been full to overflowing with students wanting to participate and every Sophomore I've spoken with has told me that the knowledge and experience they gained from the Outward Bound trip was worth the work.

Another resource Telstar can be extremely proud of is its Guidance Department. From all the Awareness workshops and preparational meetings as Freshmen, right up to making plans for college and beyond as Seniors, the Guidance office is there to make situations more bearable and easier for the students to cope with. Whether it be a family crisis, falling grades or a personal problem, Mr. Hart and his staff are always able to accommodate you.

A very important resource at Telstar, for which we are very fortunate, are the teachers. The teachers at Telstar have always given me a great deal of help in deciding what I want to do after graduation. They have been there to give me advice, criticism and information I could only have gotten from their personal experiences. I cannot recall a time when a teacher was not willing to talk to me when I was unsure of a decision or needed help making one, and I know there are many other students who feel the same way.

I think everyone realizes the importance of straight academics in school, but for those people who never plan to spell "receive" again or never want to face another dissected frog, it is encouraging to know that Telstar has also prepared us for life in the real world.

Next year, as my last act as the president of the National Honor Society I would like to make you an honorary member of the N.H.S.

VALEDICTORIAN DELWIN WILSON, Salutatorian Jason Adams, and Third Honors graduate Todd Davis were given awards for their fine academic records by Telstar Regional High School Principal Ted Davis at Awards Night, last Wednesday.

Valedictory Address

By DELWIN C. WILSON

Parents, friends, faculty, board members and classmates, I'd like to thank you all for attending this year's graduation services. We can pick up the newspaper any morning and read about society's numerous problems: senseless murders, conflicts, both foreign and local; nuclear waste, and probably most concerning to American's today, the AIDS crisis. All of these topics are extremely serious and lack an immediate solution, but let us not give up hope and pretend that there is nothing we can do, for each of us has the ability and possesses the power to bring about desired changes. There is a poem "Ulysses" by Alfred Lord Tennyson which gives great insight into man's potential. Ulysses, nothing but a shell of his former self, is an old warrior-king who vows to surge forward and to brave the struggle of life:

Come, my friends
'Tis not too late to seek a newer world
Push off, and sitting well in order smite
The sounding furrows, for my purpose holds
To sail beyond the sunset, and the baths
Of all the western stars, until I die
It may be that the gulfs will wash us down,
And see the great Achilles, whom we knew
Though much is taken, much abides, and though
We are not now that strength which in old days
Moved earth and heaven, that which we are, we are—
One equal temper of heroic hearts,
Made weak by time and fate, but strong in will;
To strive, to seek, to find and not to yield.

It is important for each of us to look within ourselves and to realize our individual potential. As Andrew Jackson once said, "Any one man with courage makes a majority." Whenever we set a goal, whether it be to get into shape or to become the President of the United States, we each must tap this personal reservoir and draw from it the necessary ingredients to meet these aims. Even if we try and fail, it is better than to never have tried at all.

It is each of our duty to take an active part in our school, church and community in order to insure their proper functioning. Service and participation provide us with the knowledge and a means to help construct our environment, better our surroundings and make decisions which concern not only our own lives but also the lives of our families and friends.

Organizations such as the local ambulance service, American Legion, Lion's Club, school clubs and countless others are vehicles through which we can express our opinions and lend our individual talents. Let us consider the words of John Ruskin, "When love and skill work together, expect a masterpiece."

As our class separates and we each depart on our quest in search of the future, let us remember our individual

10 graduate Adult Ed

The SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program held its Graduation Ceremony for the Class of 1988 on Tuesday, June 7, at the Telstar High School Cafeteria, with over 100 friends and relatives of the 10 graduates in attendance.

Members of the Class of 1988 are Anna Thurston and Anna Snyder, of Andover; Janet Gould, of Albany; Robert Cook, Steve Roberge and Richard Littlefield, of Bethel; Jeannette Coolidge, of Bethel; Bea Leonard, of Gilead; Jeff Walker, of Bryant Pond; and Eric Fleer, formerly of Bethel now living in Lewiston.

Adult and Community Education Director Cathy Newell welcomed those present and introduced the speaker, David Ackley, the director of the University of Maine at Farmington's Rutherford-McCormick Center.

In her introduction, Mrs. Newell noted that Mr. Ackley has been a great help to many SAD #44 residents as they have sought to move on to higher education. In addition to being the director, Mr. Ackley teaches English courses at the Center and has developed an interesting specialty in teaching Conversational English to exchange students. Prior to coming to UMF, he taught in New Hampshire and has held positions in education and social services. He has a Bachelor's degree in English literature from UMF and a Master's in Writing from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

In his remarks to the graduates, Mr. Ackley highlighted the qualities of motivation and determination that characterize adults who choose to return to school, and described the successes he has witnessed in his years of working with adults.

SAD #44 Board of Directors Chairman Merton T. Brown Jr., of Bethel, presented diplomas to the graduates. Five graduates received Telstar High School diplomas, earned through credits accumulated in evening classes combined with credits earned in day school. Five graduates received their GED diplomas from the State of Maine for preparation and successful passing of the seven-hour high school equivalency examination.

Eric Fleer, of the Class of 1988, has the distinction of recording the highest score ever for SAD #44 on the GED and is the third-highest scorer in Maine for 1987. He will receive an award from the state on June 22 at the annual GED Blaine House tea.

Superintendent of Schools Dewaine Crang offered congratulatory remarks to the Class of 1988 and their families and guests, and Telstar Principal Ted Davis and School Board Director Ray Harrington, of Greenwood, presented scholarship awards to Kelly Osgood, a member of the class of 1987, marking the first time that a graduate of the adult education program has been awarded scholarships by the Telstar Scholarship committee.

Congratulations to the three graduates from our community: David Wilson, Christian Robiller and Carl Colby. We wish you much success in all areas of your life.

Irene and Lew Charest, Lewiston, visited Joe and Muriel Gilbert last weekend. The Gilberts were in New Hampshire one day during the week.

Bob and Mona Lowe were at Togus on Tuesday.

Ray and Janice Harrington attended the Telstar graduation Friday evening. Janice's parents, Cora and T. Alfred Johnson, of Norway, were up for a birthday supper in Cora's honor, Saturday. Sunday evening, Ray, Janice and Patrick expect to go to the potluck supper at the Congo Church for the Spanish exchange students and their parents.

DEANIS MAKES DEAN'S LIST

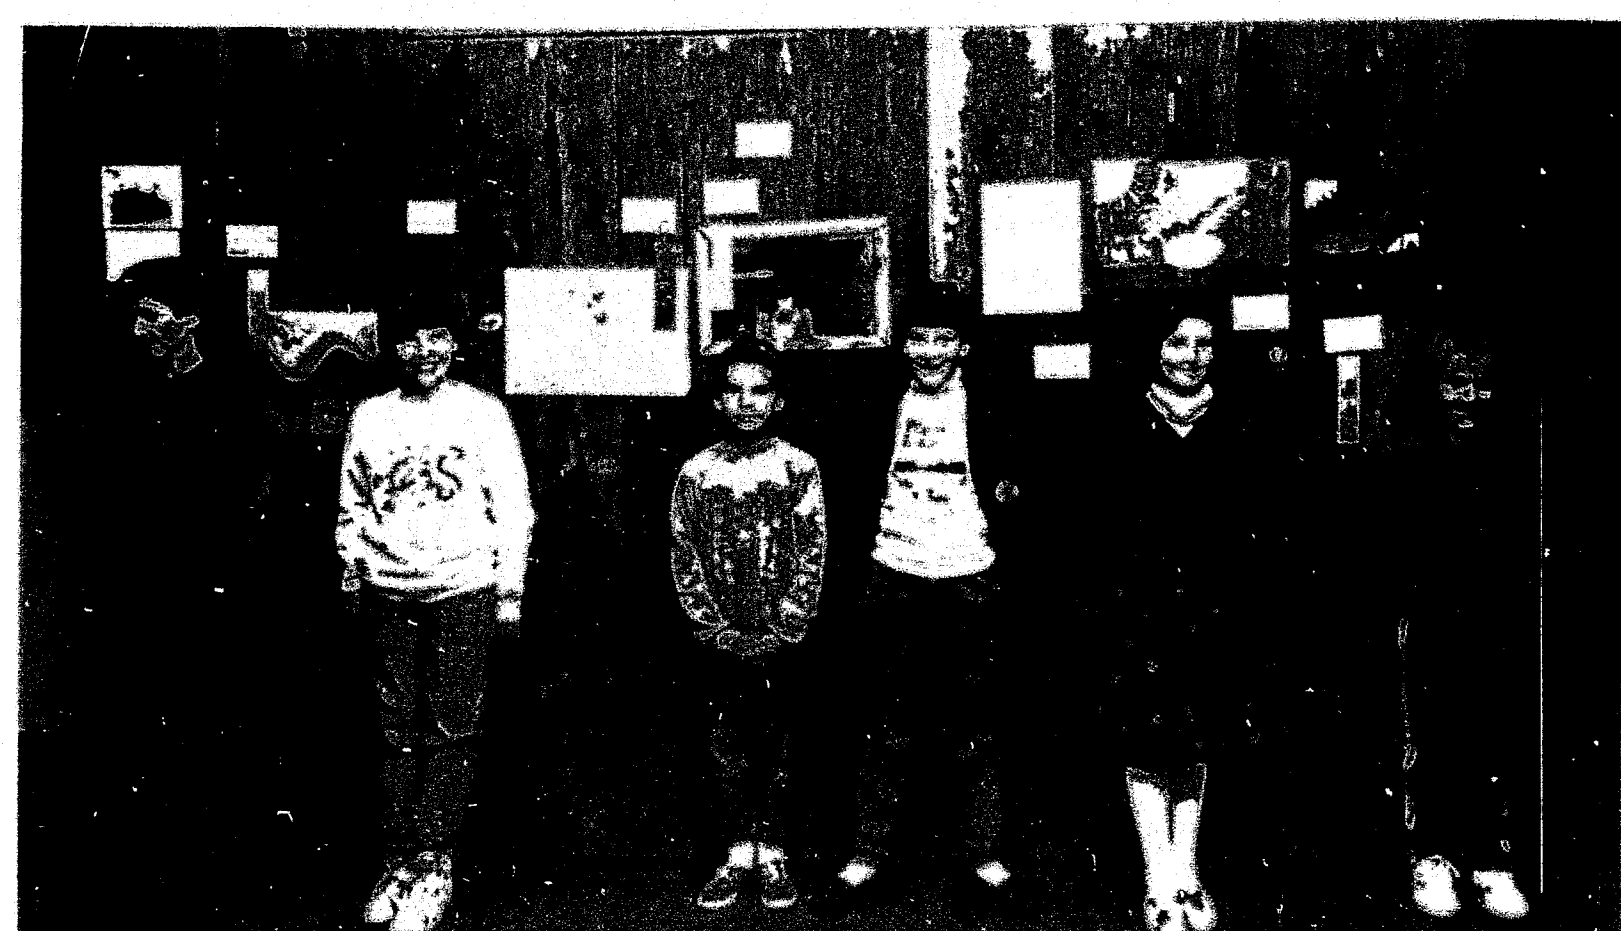

Kimberly Deanis, daughter of Gerald and Helen Deanis, of Andover, made the Dean's List this semester at the University of New England in Biddeford. She is in the School of Nursing and is employed at Central Maine Medical Center for the summer.

Miss Osgood has been accepted at the University of Maine at Farmington.

Members of the SAD #44 Adult and Community Education faculty presented book awards to graduates, offering remarks especially tailored for each recipient.

Ann Holt presented books to Janet Gould and Dick Littlefield, who have both taken history courses from her. Louise Chapman honored Bea Leonard, Jeff Walker, and Anna Snyder. Merrill Bittner presented a book to Jeannette Coolidge, Fidelis Taylor to Steve Roberge, and Susan Wyman to Anna Snyder.

Following the ceremonies, a reception was held for those attending. Future adult education graduates Rosalie Poland and Pam Rugg assisted with the refreshments. The Adult Education secretaries, Nena Sargent and Thelma Remington, served the punch and cake.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

A video—"A Visit with Norman Gray: Pulpwood Logging in the 1930s"—has been received recently, the gift of Boise Cascade. In this video, Mr. Gray recalls his experiences working in the Maine woods a half-century ago. Much appreciation is expressed to Boise Cascade for making these recollections available to the Society.

Green Thumb staffer Agnes Haines has typed from the microfilm of the 1890 Federal Census the list of Bethel Civil War veterans and widows. This information will be of particular interest to genealogists and to students of the Civil War. It is now available to researchers in the Society's Eva Bean Research Room.

The Society has been pleased to host an exhibit of Arla Patch's gifted and talented student art this past week in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House.

An orientation for new museum guides was held last Thursday. Judy Haskell, head of the Society's Museum Committee, explained the role of the guide and organized the schedule for the 1988 season, due to begin July 1. Society Director Stanley R. Howe provided a slide tour of the Dr. Moses Mason House, as well as a discussion of the activities of the Bethel Historical Society. He then took prospective guides through the house, explaining in detail important information that may be useful in interpreting the house to the public. Volunteers are still needed as substitutes and for special days. If interested, please call the Society office (824-2908), or Mrs. Haskell (824-2724).

Among the latest additions to the collections of the Bethel Historical Society are a history of Methodism from 1793 to 1886, by Stephen Allen and W.H. Pillsbury, published in 1887 in Augusta, the gift of Stephen T. Seames, of Portland, and a genealogy of the Sawin-Monroe-Johnson families of North Waterford and South Albany, the gift of Edward A. Holt, of Seattle.

A contribution from the family of Marjorie F. Cummings for the endowment has been received in her memory. Much appreciation is expressed for this generosity.

Nancy Coe Wells, a descendant of Samuel Barker, of Bethel, is a new life member. She lives in Montclair, N.J.

Town Clerk June Swan has announced that applications for doe permits are available at her office during regular office hours, Tuesday from 12 noon to 8 p.m. and Thursday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Applications must be filed by Aug. 15.

The Board of Selectmen met Thursday morning. Nancy Babcock expressed concern that plans to pave an unpaved section of the Sunday River Road, between two paved sections, would cause increased traffic and increased speed. Selectmen explained that plans for paving the section this year were not complete, but the reason for paving was to provide a better road and reduce a mud problem in the spring.

The fire station is nearing completion and Chief Virgil Konkright expects that it might be ready for use by Saturday, June 18. Chief Konkright is planning a painting bee to paint the building. He reported that some members of the Bethel Fire Department met with the Newry Fire Department Committee members Monday evening and discussed plans for the two departments to work together. More training sessions will be held, with some Bethel members working with Newry.

Plans are being made to hold an open house at the new fire station later this summer. An all-day training session is also being planned. The Fire Department Committees are now meeting at the Town Office the first and third Mondays each month at 7 p.m. More volunteer fire department members are being sought. Angelo and Paul Kusber, Woodside, Calif., visited Mr. and Mrs. Owen Wight during the weekend. Dr. and Mrs. Matthew Wight and family, of Fairfield, were guests Sunday and Dr. Matthew had the service at the Newry Community Church as Pastor Hanscom was on vacation. Sympathy is extended to Sylvia, Willard and Gretchen Wight on the deaths of Sylvia's brother and brother-in-law recently. Sylvia also lost a sister recently.

The Ladies Circle met June 6 at the home of Olive Anderson. Officers for the coming year were elected. For the second time in three years, Gould Academy clinched the Maine Association of Independent School Athletic Directors lacrosse championship with an 11-0 league record.

Senior attackman and team captain Kevin Plante, from North Attleboro, Mass., led a balanced Gould offense that averaged eight goals per game, while an outstanding defense allowed only three goals per game.

Goalie Derrick Marsellus, from Syracuse, N.Y., averaged 12 saves per game, and High School All American defenseman Jordy Almogren, from Portsmouth, N.H., shut down the leading attackmen in the state. Almogren also contributed five goals and five assists to the offense.

The midfield was led by senior Peter Boomer, of Hingham, Mass. Boomer, Almogren, Marsellus, Plante, and attackman Chris Pestana, of Amherst, N.H., all represented Gould in the league-sponsored All Star game. The team award for sportsmanship was presented to Boomer, and Plante was recognized as the most-improved player of 1988.

Almogren received the Banker Award as the school's outstanding lacrosse player. Midfielder Dave Sirois, of East Boothbay, was named captain-elect for '89.

Coach Will Graham said the team scored an average of 23 goals in the first and second quarters and only dropped off to 18 in the third and 22 in the fourth. "We started as strong as we finished. We just kept running in those games, and we never lost control. The team can feel good about winning 1 in a row, but more importantly, they represented themselves well, and they played great lacrosse!"

The Greenwood Fire Department will hold a training session Tuesday, June 21, at 6:30 p.m. at the fire station. They held their regular meeting on June 7. Mr. Barton gave a very interesting talk on what he had learned at fireman's school, including ways of using a pump more efficiently, how to keep equipment out of traffic areas as much as possible, and better ways to fill tankers at a fire, and other helpful bits of information.

The Greenwood Historical Society will hold a dedication of its darkroom at the society building on Main Street, Saturday, June 18. This room will be dedicated to the memory of Nettie Maxim, Guy Coffin and Gordon Roberts. The building will be open at 1 p.m., with the dedication at 2 p.m. The public is cordially invited to attend.

My apologies for no news last week. It seems as if every time I'm gone on Friday that something happens so I can't get the news in by the deadline on Saturday. This time we had a chimney fire. I can't believe we'd have a chimney fire this time of year, but it's still chilly around here so I burned a few pieces of paper and it was off. Our firemen, as usual, were prompt and efficient, but even with the best circumstances things need cleaning up and I missed the deadline. Sorry.

Gus and Marge Wright, of New Jersey, are at the Case cottage on Twitchell Pond for a few days.
Lorraine Mills and Gerry Shimamura visited Thelma Merrill, Myrtle Bacon and looked in on Irma Thompson, but she was with other company, at the Ledgewood Memorial Home, Thursday afternoon. We had an enjoyable visit and took Thelma for a wheelchair ride around the grounds.

Charlotte Cole visited her aunts, Lulu Swan and Carrie Robinson, of North Norway, Wednesday, June 8. Carrie was celebrating a birthday and then went to visit Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brette of North Norway and had supper with them.

I understand Charlotte and Paul Kimball have a new grandchild and they are pretty thrilled. Congratulations all.
John and Lorraine Mills went to visit the Earl Colbys and help nephew Carl celebrate his graduation. Good work, Carl.

There were 17 members present at the Greenwood Historical Society meeting Wednesday. The meeting room and addition had all been completed when they arrived, which pleased everyone. They made plans for the darkroom dedication, the Booster Club supper on June 25 preceding the dance and for a flea market on July 9. Phyllis Coolidge furnished refreshments, after which a video of Yellowstone National Park was shown. Grace Smith donated an old picture of E.L. Tebbets Spool Co.

Another Thursday morning and time to type a little. Rather cloudy at this time but hope it will get better as the day goes along.

Got home from Lewiston yesterday after being there since last Friday night. Went down to help Wynona with her graduation buffet and stayed over to go to an entertainment at Courtney's school yesterday. It means a lot to children to have parents and grandparents come to play and whatever they are in. The nursery school pupils were all very cute and performed well. They learn a lot by going to nursery school and playing with other children as well as learning songs and many other things. It sure helps them to grow in every way.

As last year, the graduation was very nice to see even though there didn't seem to be as many folks attending. Olympia Snowe was one of the speakers and gave a very interesting talk. Awards were given for different things and all were surprised who got the awards, as they knew nothing of it until they were spoken about and called to accept. Family support meant a lot, as usual, and it certainly was there. Some of the graduates didn't attend; they don't realize how much they miss by not attending. It is a special time whether one is a teenager or an adult. It takes lots of courage for an adult to return and get a diploma and they should be very proud. I say "Bravo" to all who have the courage and get their diplomas. It shows how much they want that special paper. And as one of the speakers said, they should be proud of it and call attention to it by putting it in a special place and calling everyone's attention to it.

Peggy had taken me to Fryeburg on Friday to see the dentist, and then we went from there to Lewiston where we stuffed finger rolls for the buffet. Peggy cut the pumpkin loaves that I had made for Wynona and when it was time we went to the hall and set up the food. Wynona and I helped decorate the hall a little and Peggy and I did the food. There was plenty for all and some took home food to help eat it up.

Saturday evening, Wynona, Michael and friends, David and Mabel, went out to supper or dinner, whichever you want to call it, and after they got home, Wynona and I went to Greene to the Grange Hall dancing. We knew that Peggy and Russell planned to be there and they were. We had a lovely evening of dancing even though the arthritis acts up at times. We were both plenty lame on Sunday and knew we had done something different. Michael doesn't like to dance like Bonnie does so stayed home with the girls.

I babysat the girls some while there and did other things to help Bonnie with work. Can't sit and do nothing. I have to keep my fingers busy somehow.

Went for a walk or two with the girls so got a little exercise that way. On Tuesday, Bonnie took me to see Dr. Jealous in North Bridgton. We ate out at Denny's on our way home. A lovely place to go as they have a special Senior Citizen list that doesn't cost as much as the regular menu items do. We enjoyed the lunch very much.

Wednesday morning, Wynona took Courtney to school and went shopping for necessary items and then came back to get me to go to the entertainment at Courtney's school. It was nice to watch the children perform and each had a plant for their mother. Courtney wanted to keep hers for herself but am sure if it survives mother will have to help.

We went to Deering Ice Cream Restaurant for lunch and then they brought me home. Didn't stay long as Wynona had to get back to do a little work at her school.

Myrna and Bernard White, of Auburn, visited her mother for a short time Wednesday afternoon. Took home a little more rhubarb for sauce. It is very good and I must get busy and freeze some. Guess it won't be today as I had the misfortune to cut my finger on a glass this morning while washing dishes. The bottom of a glass came right off while I was holding it and washing it so got a gash in my fingers. Hard to type this morning but will manage, as I usually do.

Russell's plants look good even though he said there was hail here during the thunder showers the other day. The columbine is so pretty with its dainty blossoms, and all the plants look real good.

Impi Mack and Mary Lovejoy attended a baby shower for Cindy McKee. It was held at Yvonne Whittemore's.

The youth group at Mission Congregational Church held the final meeting of the season at Andrew and Sylvia Haverlin's.

West Paris Grange had a good turnout for the dance Saturday night. Vera Cross won the door prize. Next meeting on June 16 and it will be election of officers.

David Small, of Kennebunk, called at Lovejoy's over the weekend.

Pleasant Valley Bible Church gets new pastor

The Rev. Dr. Kenneth P. Weldon is the new pastor of Pleasant Valley Bible Church, preaching his first service there Sunday, June 5.

Dr. Weldon, his wife Joyce, and children Brian and Joshua came to West Bethel after spending eight years in Alfred. While in Alfred, Dr. Weldon pastored the North Alfred Baptist Church, was a member of the Alfred Rescue Squad, Alfred Fire Department and chaplain and deputy sheriff for the York County Sheriff's Department.

Pastor Weldon graduated from Florida Bible College with a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Biblical Education in 1974, and from Covington Theological Seminary in Rossville, Ga., with a Master of Theology Degree in 1984 and a Doctor of Theology in 1987.

He has pastored churches in Aliquippa, Pa., and Biddeford Pool, in addition to Alfred.

Raymond Mack had a visit from an old schoolmate, Robert Clough, of Hebron, on Saturday.

Marcia Baxter spent the weekend in Skowhegan to attend retirement party of her mother, Persus Corson.

Tummy Fairbanks and family, of Colorado, are here visiting with the Charlie Holdens. He expects to be here for another week or so.

I hope I got everything right and hope if I didn't that I will be corrected. Glad to get the news to report.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words, comfort and help for your daily life.

At this time of graduation and of children's day, I feel it would be well to give particular note to our youth.

As time flies by, our present day youth will soon be the adults working in our factories, businesses, churches, leading our government, influencing the political and social ideas and ideals of our world. Are they prepared for this responsibility?

I am certain that our educational system of today offers greater information to our children of world affairs than ever before. Science, math and all other subjects offer a far more advanced understanding of undiscovered theories than 20-25 years ago. But are the youth, and even the educators, of today fully ready to accept the fact that there is also need of knowledge and understanding in subjects untouched by text books and school? We cannot blame this upon our school system alone. They are restricted by Federal laws in much of this.

The blame is not my concern but rather the fact that I feel such lack should be called to the attention of all. The youth of today are far better prepared to step into the responsibilities of life. I, for one, am very proud of every one of them, but would like for them and their parents to take a look at a situation or group of situations that do exist.

The morals and ideals of our world are slipping—I do not mean by this that the youth of today are worse or more sinful than in past times. Perhaps I should add "God forbid." However, socially accepted habits are now below par of a few decades ago.

Is this worse? To do what you believe is wrong, knowing that it's wrong—would that be worse than to do it and accept it as right? The Apostle Paul speaks of man in two parts. The inner man and the outer man. While the outward man sins because of mortal weakness—the inner man resists because of his spiritual knowledge.

Thus the ideals of right and wrong are somewhat upheld although violated by our weaknesses.

Some years ago during the gangster days of the '30s, an old ballad contained the words, "To yourself be true, then there's nothing you'll do that will disgrace the ones you love." This is still a good motto for today.

You—we love you all. May God bless, keep and guide you. This world, crazy and mixed up as it is, has survived many generations.

We trust you and the youth of the future to keep it as good as it is—maybe improve it a little.

More illegally dumped tires in Albany? The Albany Improvement Association, at its meeting Monday night, took up the matter of the new tire dump. The state's Department of Environmental Protection has also sent an official to investigate. Albany is already stuck with a much larger tire dump that no one knows how to get rid of.

My heart goes out to the Barnett families who have suffered so many losses in such a short time. Following the death of Pearl a few short weeks ago, her sister, Phyllis Young, experienced the unexpected death of her husband, Don, and next day the death of her brother, Lee. May God grant her and the rest of the family respite.
Margaret Mitchell attended the funeral of Marjorie Cummings, a long time friend.
It is good that so much is being done to inform the public and find a cure for AIDS disease. The government has put out a booklet about it and many thousands of dollars including taxpayers' dollars are spent on the subject. Yet this is a preventable disease although many victims are innocent. It would be good to see as much done for Alzheimer's disease, which is not preventable but which is little known about except among victims and caretakers, yet affects many thousands of people. They are not cared for by the Social Security Insurance Program as are other patients. Many are in special care, but more public education concerning this disease would help the public to understand and react constructively to the victims and family members in our midst.
Mardie Edwards got some good pictures of the marauding bear from both ends—she cut a hole in a window screen and caught her standing up on her hind legs reaching up with a front leg to grab a bird feeder. I hope old bruin makes a U-turn after every visit and goes back the way she came. A black mound in the road indicates she moseyed in this direction for a ways recently.

Our sincere thanks to all those good generous people who came to or participated in the benefit supper given for us on Saturday night. Special thanks to members of the Albany Improvement Association, especially Tim and Leslie Kavanagh, Roberts White and Irene Anderson. Also thanks to Jane Wardwell and the women of the Albany Church for helping.
Life in a small town (or township) can seem isolating at times, but when tragedy occurs, how reassuring to have friends, neighbors and even strangers who care. God bless you. We are grateful. Your kindness is getting us through this.

It was an exciting week for Little League and Farm Team baseball. Whether there were wins or losses, it was easy to find something to smile about.
When the Red Sox lost their first game to Bryant Pond on June 3 by a 10-0 loss, it was time to look at the game on a positive note. The Red Sox played good ball and were able to hold their opponent until the top of the fifth inning. Travis York got a triple and John Tester got a single in the third inning.
June 6 the Red Sox lost to Rumford Point. Travis York pitched a good game, and second baseman Ben Fogg made an out by a grand slide to the plate.
The Blues lost out to West Paris the following night with a 30-20 defeat. Nathan Whitworth made a great catch against the West Paris team. Coach Joe Harvey said the boys worked real well together.
The Greens won their first game with the Bryant Pond 7's by an 18-12 victory. There were two runs by Joel Dakin and Matt Laughton. The outfielders made great attempts to retrieve the ball. Coach Glenn Dakin said it was going to be a very good year.
The Braves won out over Bryant Pond, Monday night, June 6, with a 10-7 win. This gives them a 3-0 record. Adam Taylor led all hitters with two singles and a double at four times at bat. He pitched 2-3 innings. Tim Remington came in and did an excellent job for the rest of the game. Bryant Pond's Chris Mullen slammed out a big home run for their team.
Coach Remington was pleased with the 11 base hits acquired in each of their last two games. Through three games Steve Remington leads the team in "on base percentage"—.925 percent.
The Red Sox and the Braves came together last Wednesday night. The Braves had a 9-1 win.
Jason Fraser had three at bats, two hits and scored one run. He made a super catch on a pop foul in the sixth inning. Steve Remington struck out 12 of 20 batters and gave up one hit.
Red Sox's Adam Newell had a busy pitching night. He faced 24 batters, struck out 10, gave up seven base hits and walked eight. Resounding cheers broke out when Adam Hart got his first home run. The tiny tot T-Ballers are still hard at practice.
Until next week—see you at the game.

DAVID S. COFFIN

David S. Coffin, 34, of West Paris, died Sunday, June 11, 1988, at Stephens Memorial Hospital, following a lingering illness.
